SELECT POETRY.

THE GOOD OLD WAY.

John Muir had a wife who was kind and true
  A wife who loved him well;
She cared for the house and their only child;
  But if I the truth must tell,
She fretted and pined because John was poor
  And his business was slow to pay;
But he only said when she talked of change,
  "We'll stick to the good old way!"

She saw her neighbors were growing rich
  And dwelling in houses grand,
That she was living in poverty,
  With wealth on every hand;
And she urged her husband to speculate,
  To risk his earnings at play;
But he only said, "My dearest wife,
  We'll stick to the good old way!"

For he knew that the money that's quickly got
  Is the money that's quickly lost;
And the money that stays is the money earned
  At honest endeavor's cost.
So he plodded along in his honest style,
  And he bettered himself each day,
And he only said to his fretful wife,
  "We'll stick to the good old way."

And at last there came a terrible crash,
  When beggary want and shame
Came down on the homes of their wealthy friends,
  While John's remained the same,
For he had no debt and he gave no trust,
  "My motto is this," he'd say
"It's a charm against panics of every kind—
  'Tis stick to the good old way!"

And his wife looked round on the little home
  That was every nail their own,
And she asked forgiveness of honest John
  For the peevish mistrust she had shown,
But he only said, as her tearful face
  Upon his shoulder lay,
"The good old way is the best way, wife;
  We'll stick to the good old way."

Three Minutes to 12.

THE STORY OF A WINTER NIGHT.

On a cold December night some twenty years ago, when the earth was bound in a black frost and the bitter wind blew strong and shrewdly, I was returning home from spending the evening at a friend's house, situated some three or four miles out of town. The sky was so black, the country lanes were so dark, that I was truly thankful when the scattered lights of an outlying suburb began to twinkle in the distance, and it was with a sigh of relief that I stopped under the first lamppost I came to and looked at my watch. It was no easy task, for the lamp glass had a pane broken and the strong wind blew the gas in all directions and almost extinguished it.

I read the time at last—three minutes to 12—and, looking up from the watch-face, I started to see a man standing opposite me. I had heard nothing of his approach. We looked at each other but for a moment, yet it was sufficient time to imprint his features indelibly on my memory. A tall, shabby man, in a threadbare, black frock coat and a seedy tall hat, his face lantern-jawed and sallow, his eyes sunken and lusterless, his beard long and ill-trimmed. In a tone of elaborate civility he asked me the time, thanked me for my answer, and giving me good night, passed into the black darkness, which seemed to engulf him like a grave.

I turned for a moment to think of his lonely walk in that grim obscurity, and resumed my homeward way laughing at myself for the start he had given me, and reflected that the strong wind had blown away the sound of his approach. I thought of him as I sat and smoked my pipe over my fire, and felt a comfortable shudder steal upon me as I imagined him facing the bitter blast in his insufficient clothing.

In course of a week or two the incident—trifling enough, Heaven knows—faded from my memory, and I thought no more of it.

In these days I was actively engaged in the timber trade, and the course of my business took me a good deal about the country, and brought me largely in contact with the agents of the different noblemen and country gentlemen of the district. With one of these agents, who resided near the country town of L., I had numerous transactions, and I used often to run down to L. to meet him, for the town was only fifteen miles away, and was on a line of railroad. It was a dull little hole enough, that only warmed up into life when the militia were out or the the assizes were on.

One night I returned from L., having just made a large purchase from my friend, the agent, whose master, a sporting nobleman, was reduced to cut down the family timber. When I fell asleep that night I had a very simple but vivid dream. I thought I was standing on a lofty hill. By my side stood a veiled figure, who, with a commanding gesture, motioned me toward the town of L., which lay in the far distance. Then I awoke.

Of course I explained the thing to myself easily enough. I had been a good deal engaged in the neighborhood of the place, and had a large venture more or less remotely connected with it. Still the dream was so vivid that I could not dismiss it from my thoughts during the whole of the day, and when I went to bed at night I wondered if it would again visit me.

It did come again; precisely the same dream, in precisely the same manner. Once more I found a convincing explanation. Doubtless I had been thinking too much about the first dream and this had given rise to the second. But my explanation did not convince me in the least; again I was haunted by the thing throughout the day, and when I came home at night my preoccupation was so evident that it attracted the attention of my wife. She questioned me upon the cause, and, only too thankful to unbosom myself of what was now almost a trouble, I told her about the dream and its repetition. She had the tact not to laugh at me, but was evidently little impressed by the narrative.

The third night it came again, if anything more vivid and startling than before. This time I was utterly unhinged, the pale face that fronted me in the looking glass was hardly recognizable for my own. I went to breakfast, filled with a foreboding of some misfortune—bad news in my letters—I knew not what.

The maid entered with the letter-bag. 'There,' said my wife, passing me a letter on which was the L. post mark. 'That breaks your dream, John.'

I opened it hurriedly. It was from the agent, requesting me to meet him at L. that day at 1 o'clock, to arrange a difficulty that had arisen in the performance of his contract.

I was intensely relieved. Here was an opportunity to go to L., and perhaps, the very fact of going would put me right. There were two fast trains to L. in the morning, but I decided to go by the first, regardless of the fact that I should have some hours to wait. So I found myself speeding away to my destination.

The train was full. Pipes exhaled their fragrance, newspapers were turned and flattened and there was that leisurely kind of morning conversation that prevails among men going off by an early train to their day's work. I soon discovered that I had fallen among a party of barristers, and their chief topic was a peculiarly interesting case which was to be finished to-day at the L. assizes.

'He must sum up against the prisoners' said a gentleman with a fat, florid face and long sandy whiskers, who wore a light overcoat and shepherd's plaid trousers. 'The defense was a complete failure, and deserved to be.'

'It was certainly rather audacious,' returned a clean shaven young man with a double eye-glass, who sat opposite me. 'But I don't like circumstantial evidence.'

'All evidence is more or less circumstantial,' answered he of a florid complexion; 'and this man is as clearly guilty to my mind as if there had been a dozen witnesses to stand by and see him do the deed. That's my opinion, Heywood,' and the oracle disappeared behind its newspaper.

Feeling glad to discover any topic that would divert my thoughts from their gloomy forebodings, I addressed myself to Heywood, the young barrister, with whom I had a slight acquaintance.

'You seem much interested in the trial that is going on,' I said. 'May I ask if you are engaged upon it?'

'No,' he answered. 'But it is a curious case. A man, a clerk dismissed from his employment, is accused of murdering the cashier of the firm. The evidence against him is entirely circumstantial; but the defense broke down at the very most critical point, and the case certainly looks very black for the prisoner.'

The train was now slackening speed, and there was a general rising. I rose, too.

'Are you going to get out here?' said Mr. Heywood, opening the door as we glided into the station.

'Have you come down so early on business?'

'Ye—s,' said I, wishing to goodness I knew what the immediate business was. 'Nothing urgent, though,' I added, half to myself, as I got out.

'If you have the time to spare, you had better turn in and hear the end of the trial,' said Heywood, carelessly. 'The court will be crowded with ladies, no doubt, but I can smuggle you into a corner.'

Not knowing what to do with myself for the next two hours, I accepted the offer with gratitude. I was soon seated in an obscure corner of a dingy, ill-lighted, ill-ventilated court-house, which would have been ill smelling too, had it not been for the scent wafted from the numerous ladies who were present. One of these, a buxom female obstruction who ought to have known better, was just in front of me, and blocked my view with an enormous bonnet. I could not see the prisoner or his counsel, or even the clock over his head, at which the people kept looking eagerly as the hour fixed for the recommencement of the trial approached.

At last there was a stir and a bustle, caused by persons entirely invisible to me, then a call for silence, and, after a few preliminaries, the summing up commenced.

I listened the more intently because I could see nothing. The clear, cold, telling sentences cut deep in my consciousness. How distinct and convincing it all was! How all those minute facts, the mute testimony of footmarks and the like, arranged and distributed by that powerful intellect, grouped themselves in the damning proof of guilt!

I cared nothing for the prisoner, had no personal interest in the trial, but my mind was wonderfully fascinated by this tale of horror. At length the weighty tones ceased, and a murmur of relief and expectation ran round the assembly. At this moment the woman with the high bonnet shifted her seat, and I obtained a full view of the prisoner. I started involuntarily. Where had I seen that face before?

The jury returned after a very short absence; the verdict was guilty; accompanied with a recommendation to mercy. Again the judge's solemn tones sounded through the court, again they ceased.

There was dead silence. I sprung to my feet as if impelled to do so by some unseen power, and looked steadily at the prisoner. His face was averted from me for the moment, but the looks of the people showed me that he was about to speak. Slowly he turned round, and, in a voice whose deep, earnest tones could be distinctly heard all over the assembly, he said:

'There lives but one man who can prove me innocent—and right there he stands.'

With white face and outstretched arm he pointed—at me. I gazed at him with a sudden flash of recognition. It was the man I had seen under the lamp. And, by a strange coincidence, at this moment the court clock struck twelve.

The plea that had been got up by the defense was an alibi. But there was a space of some two hours that could not be accounted for, and the theory of the prosecution was that the crime had been committed during that time. My evidence supplied the missing link, for the place in which I had seen the man was so far distant from the scene of the murder that it was impossible for him to have been anywhere near at the time of its coincidence.

And the dream? Only a coincidence, you will say, perhaps, or a fit of indigestion, or my timber contract. Nevertheless, as I have told it to you, so it happened. Explain it away who can.—San Francisco Argonaut.

By Universal Accord, AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS are the best of all purgatives for family use. They are the product of long, laborious, and successful chemical investigation, and their extensive use, by physicians in their practice, and by all civilized nations, proves them the best and most effectual purgative Pill that medical science can devise. Being purely vegetable no harm can arise from their use, and being sugar-coated, they are pleasant to take. In intrinsic value and curative powers no other Pills can be compared with them; and every person, knowing their virtues, will employ them, when needed. They keep the system in perfect order, and maintain in healthy action the whole machinery of life. Mild, searching and effectual, they are especially adapted to the needs of the digestive apparatus, derangements of which they prevent and cure, if timely taken. They are the best and safest physic to employ for children and weakened constitutions, where a mild but effectual cathartic is required.

THE McKEAN MINER.

Smethport, Pa., February 8, 1883.

JUST as we go to press we have received a form of a petition to the county commissioners for the purchase of real estate and the erection of a County Poor House, with the request that we urge its circulation throughout the county. As we understand it, the proper way to get at this matter is by a petition of two-thirds of the poor overseers of the county to the Court, which will then direct a decision by popular vote of the people at any regular election. We shall be pleased to see this matter thoroughly agitated and the right action taken for a change in our county poor system. We will give further attention to it in our next issue, and will gladly give room in our columns for the expression of public opinion in regard to it.

THE legislative Committee on constitutional reform have had under consideration the proposed amendment to the constitution prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors for use as a beverage. The committee had two proposed amendments before them. One was the production of the State constitutional amendment association and the other was one proposed by Judge Agnew. The only difference between the two is that the latter includes "vinous" beverages in the prohibited list, which the former does not. The committee heard the arguments for and against the two propositions, and reported the following proposed amendment.

That the following amendment is proposed to the Constitution of the Commonwealth, to be known as article XIX; The manufacture, sale or keeping for sale of all intoxicating liquors, whether distilled, brewed, fermented or vinous, and all compounds thereof, or of any thereof, to be used as a beverage, is forever prohibited within the Commonwealth, and the General Assembly shall, without delay, pass all laws necessary to enforce this prohibition. Provided, That compensation shall be made out of the Treasury of the State to all persons who own real estate which has been occupied and licensed and the license paid for the manufacture or sale of the articles before named, for five successive years previous to the adoption of this amendment, which will be injured or reduced in value by reason of the destruction of their business by its adoption, and the Legislature shall, after its adoption, provide the manner in which the said injury or reduction in value shall be ascertained or paid.

Section 3. The manufacture and sale of the aforesaid liquors for other purposes than a beverage shall be regulated by law under sufficient penalties and securities.

It will be seen upon reading the above that Judge Agnew's proposition is adopted, with the added proviso indemnifying owners from the State treasury for injury to property by reason of the abolition of their business. There is a semblance of justice in this proviso and pro little as would be the claims for indemnity the State could well afford to pay them, and save money by the investment, provided the adoption of the amendment would prohibit effectually the traffic in and use of intoxicating beverages. Yet, whether such was or was not the purpose of the committee, the insertion of this proviso (should the amendment be referred to the people as reported) will seriously if not effectually obstruct its adoption. The taxpaying voters will hesitate before pledging the payment of unknown and incomputable indemnity claims of liquor manufactures and dealers.

SHOULD CHANGE HIS POLITICS.

HON. B. D. HAMLIN'S BARK-EXTRACT-PROTECTION-LETTER AND HIS FREE TRADE PARTY—SOME PLAIN FACTS STATED BY A CORRESPONDENT.

SMETHPORT, PA., Feb. 6, 1883.

ED. MINER:—In the last issue of the Democrat, published in this place, appears a letter from Hon. B. D. Hamlin on the subject of the proposed reduction of the duty on hemlock bark extract. The editor of the Democrat prefaces the letter with an endorsement, in which I find the following: "The sentiments uttered by him are similar to those entertained by every man in favor of encouraging American industry, and unless the members of Congress wish to see the subjects of Great Britain's dominions prospering at our expense they will promptly refuse to reduce the duty." It seems to the writer of this that the sentiments expressed in Mr. Hamlin's letter will be endorsed by every patriotic citizen. It will be gratifying to all in this community, at least, to know that through the efforts of ex-Gov. Curtin, the only sincere tariff democrat of the Pennsylvania delegation in the present House, backed by the Republican members from all the States, that the twenty per cent duty on extract is to be continued. And I speak advisely when I say "the only sincere tariff democrat." Mr. Randall pretends to be in favor of a tariff for protection, but any intelligent man who has watched the recent proceedings in Congress will know that it is the merest pretense, and that he would sell his birthright if the sale would insure the next Speakership for Samuel J. Randall.

It makes great difference with democrats on this tariff question whether their ox is being gored or their neighbors. The same conclusive arguments adduced by Mr. Hamlin to retain the duty on extract will apply to nearly every article manufactured in this country, and yet the fact is staring us in the face at this moment that nearly every democratic member of the present Congress, of both houses, are trying by every parliamentary obstruction they can devise to defeat the bill now before Congress, the purpose of which is to revise and correct the laws regulating the tariff. It is conceded on all hands that the present duties on imports which were imposed in war times, are in many cases excessive, while in others they are less than they should be. Under an act of Congress a commission was appointed a year ago to examine into this whole subject, and report the result of their investigations in time for this Congress to act upon it. The commission was composed of men eminent in their several callings. They devoted months of incessant labor to the work assigned them, the result of their labors being a bill which was submitted to the present Congress for their consideration. It was referred to the ways and means committee, which corrected it wherever necessary, and was reported by that committee to the House three weeks ago. From the day the bill was reported to the House to the present moment every conceivable dilatory motion has been interjected by the free trade democrats to prevent its consideration and thereby throw the subject over to the tender mercies of the next House, a majority of which will be composed of democratic free traders. It is possible that the workingmen of this country will find out after a while which party proposes to reduce them to the condition of vassals of England. Free trade democrats are the rule, while free trade republicans are the exceptions, and no one knows this better than the Hon. B. D. Hamlin—and the editor of the Democrat should know it.

THE McKEAN MINER.

Smethport, Pa., February 8, 1883.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS.

The streams in this vicinity have often been higher than during the recent flood.

—It is said that McHenry is the 119th victim of glycerine explosions in the oil country.

—The Auditors Report published in this issue, though rather lengthy, will be interesting to taxpayers and citizens generally.

—The republican caucuses of Bradford city will be held next Saturday evening, and the city convention on Thursday evening of next week.

—The spring elections take place on Tuesday the 20th inst. It is time that candidates for borough and township officers began to bob up serenely.

—Our readers must bear with us this and the next two weeks during which a deluge of legal publications will encroach very much upon our regular reading matter space.

—The boilers of the Era News and Mail all gave out last week. The Star press came to the rescue of the two former and a hastily constructed motor got the later out its difficulty.

—Trains have been practically abandoned on this end of the B. B. & K. road since Monday. It is promised that trains will be running in a day or two—Providence and the paymaster permitting.

—Who lost them? Two keys and a button hook have been handed us with the request that we advertise for the owner. One is a Yale lock key and the other apparently belongs to an inside safe door.

—Lewis Steinhauer, of Clermont, has "laid down", to use a stock market expression. An unfortunate or unwise lumber contract was the occasion of his failure. The creditors are quite numerous, at Clermont, Farmers Valley and Smethport.

—Man blown to atoms at Simpson; train through the bridge near Ischua, two men killed and others badly injured; suicide in Olean; probable fatal accident in same place; fatal oil fire on Cooper tract, and numerous disasters by the floods—all the above recounted in Tuesday's Era. Monday was certainly a day of horror.

—The lengthy auditors report and the large amount of other legal matter necessary to be published in this issue, stoppage of trains and delay of mail and express matter has been the cause of much tribulation in the MINER office this week and delay in the issue of the paper.

—A terrible accident occurred on the B. N. Y. & P. road on Monday. The flood of water had so weakened the abutments of the Ischua creek bridge that when the morning train ran upon it it gave way precipitating the engine, baggage and smoking car into the water. The engineer and fireman were killed and conductor Love received serious injuries. Fortunately there were few passengers on the train.

—Will Pratt a young man hardly yet of age has skipped out leaving a number of creditors to mourn his absence. He has been engaged in filling a logging contract at Cory's mill, and finding or fearing that he was going to get left in the transaction concluded to emigrate. It is said that his unsettled liabilities will amount to about $1500. A large portion of it is borrowed money loaned from local money lenders who would hesitate long and raise innumerable objections if asked for a short time loan of a few hundreds by responsible property holders old enough to vote. There is not much room for sympathy unless it be for the enterprising young man who has made such an unfortunate start in life. He should have remained and fought out the battle, if it took the labor of a life time.

Suicided.

Mr. Samuel Truby, of Olean, committed suicide early Monday morning by shooting himself through the head. He was a married man and leaves a wife and four children in rather destitute circumstances to battle with the world alone. Whiskey was at the bottom of the tragedy, as usual.

Little Folks' Entertainment.

The class of little people who have been under the instruction of Miss. M. M. Brown in elocution for a number of weeks, will give a public entertainment at the Kittredge Opera House on Monday evening of next week, the 12th inst. Miss Brown has given the class careful training with a view to this entertainment and promises a rare treat to all who attend. The price of admission has been fixed at the low rate of 25 cents for adults and 15 cents for children. Reserved seats can be secured at Armstrong's drugstore for 35 cents. The Opera House ought to be, and probably will be, well filled on that occasion.

Probably Fatal Explosion.

Mrs. Kinney, a widow lady residing in Olean met with a remarkable and probably fatal accident last Sunday night. The town is lighted by natural gas. A main in front of her place broke and leaked into her cellar or basement. She went down after something with a lamp and a frightful explosion followed. She was terribly injured and can hardly survive.

School Report.

Report of High School Department for the month commencing Jan. 8th, 1883 and ending Feb. 5th, 1883:

Whole number of scholars registered in the department seventy-seven, Males 37 Females 40. The attendance has been good considering the weather. The average per cent. attendance 88. We shall endeavor to present a more extended report, at our earliest convenience, which will give standing and progress of the scholars.

A. W. SULLIVAN PRIN.

Personal Mention.

John R. Chadwick is confined to the house with a severe cold.

Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Blakeslee and family, of Olean, are visiting their numerous friends in town.

Mrs. Maria Carter was a pleasant caller at the MINER office yesterday. She is now a resident of Arcade, N. Y.

Jos. Moorhead has severed his connection, for a term at least, with the Bradford Mail, and will in the meantime occupy his timid as a pension agent. Jo. is a valuable newspaper man, and we predict will not be out of the harness very long.

H. H. Bartholomew, General Agent of the Brooklyn Life Insurance Company at this point, was summoned to the Riddell House parlor in Bradford last week Wednesday evening and there presented by the manager, R. P. Magee, on behalf of the company he represents with a handsome cane of snake-wood, highly polished and mounted with a solid silver head appropriately engraved. Accompanying the gift was a complimentary letter from the President of the Brooklyn Life.

School Report For 1882.

Through the courtesy of County Superintendent Cambell we have before us a copy of Pennsylvania school report for 1882. Mr. Campbell's report to the State Superintendent as to the condition of the schools of McKean county, as embodied in the general report, we will publish in our next issue. It is quite lengthy, as well as interesting, and it is necessarily crowded out this week. Mr. Campbell has a limited supply of these reports, which he will be glad to supply to any who will apply for them.

ANOTHER VICTIM

OF THE DEADLY AND TREACHEROUS NITRO-GLYCERINE—HARVEY W. McHENRY'S TERRIBLE DEATH NEAR SIMPSON.

On Monday afternoon the detonation of a heavy explosion was plainly heard in this place from the direction of Aiken. There was considerable speculation as to the cause of it, and in a few hours it was learned that the deadly glycerine had again performed its fatal work and sent another victim into eternity. In attempting to shoot a well on John McKeown's lease, Bingham tract, near Simpson, Harvey McHenry an employee of the Roberts Torpedo company was blown to atoms. From the Era of Tuesday we gather the following particulars of the sad event.

McHenry left the magazine at 10 a. m. with forty pounds of glycerine, arriving at the well at 2 p. m. After thawing out the cans in the boiler house he carried two into the derrick for the purpose of filling the first shell. As drilling had just been finished at the well the derrick was still boarded up and the spectators who stood at a safe distance outside could not see McHenry's actions. McKeown and his foreman were present. The doomed man had not been in the derrick but a few moments when a fearful explosion occurred, the rig being rent to atoms and the horrified spectators were nearly knocked down by the concussion. The detonation was heard three miles away. Immediately the ruins caught fire from the gas and the men put out the flames as soon as they had recovered from the shock.

The cause of the explosion may never be known, whether McHenry slipped in holding the can, whether he struck it against anything or overheated the compound.

Harvey Wilson McHenry was about twenty-four years of age and had been in the employ of Roberts Company a number of years. He was a resident of this city and neighboring towns for a much longer period and enjoyed a very extensive acquaintance, while in many quarters he was a high favorite. Young McHenry is very highly spoken of by gentlemen connected with the company, who praise his integrity, judgment and good moral character. He was justly regarded as a promising young man. He was married but had no children, his wife and father residing at Coleville. His mother and eldest brother live in Parker. Another brother, W. H. McHenry, lives in this city and is in the employ of the Robert's Company. It may be remembered that last year McHenry was the hero of a most exciting adventure in which his life was spared almost by a miracle. While driving a wagon containing several hundred pounds of glycerine, the team ran away at full speed down a hill, Harvey jumping out and escaping with slight bruises. Although the vehicle was partly wrecked wonderful to relate the glycerine did not explode, thus showing the capricious nature of the compound. McHenry was past master workmen of Coleville Lodge A. O. U. W., and his widow will receive the benefits of the order. The news of the tragedy caused the greatest regret among the numerous friends in this city and the deepest sympathy was expressed for his widow.

Bradford's Annual Bath.

The city of Bradford enjoys a good soaking bath about once a year. This probably accounts for the healthfulness and unusual morality of the town, as cleanliness is next to godliness. Last year this annual luxury was indulged in during the last week of January, this year it was a week delayed. The heavy rains of Friday and Saturday, aided by the melting of a large portion of the heavy body of snow in the mountains rendered the East and West branches of the Tuna, raging torrents. The banks of both streams were overflowed and all the lower portions of the city were inundated, 500 families having their houses washed by the water. About 10 o'clock an ice gorge which had formed at Harbour Street, on the West branch, gave way and swept down the stream with irresistible force, carrying away a portion of Mechanic Street bridge and the lower story of a house adjoining. Later in the night the breaking of another gorge swept away the Pine and Kennedy Street bridges, and damaged many buildings along the bank of the creek.

The fire alarm was sounded and firemen and citizens turned out at 4 o'clock Sunday morning to rescue people from inundated buildings on Kennedy, Forman and Amm Streets, but in several sections the water was so deep and the current so strong that it was impossible to reach the imperilled people, and they had to take refuge in the second stories of their dwellings, all the time fearing that they would be swept away by the tremendous rush of ice and water. Fortunately, so far as is known, no lives were lost, though the destruction of property was heavy.

On the flats between Bradford and Tarport the disaster was still more severely felt, as the inhabitants are mostly of the poorer class and their dwellings only one story in height. At the breaking of the first gorge the waters came upon them suddenly and many persons barely escaped with their lives, and a number of families were rescued by the use of rafts hastily constructed of the debris in the stream. Many firemen and citizens worked waist-up in the ice-cold water, rescuing the unfortunate people at this point and in the lower part of the city proper.

Some thirty business places on lower Main Street were inundated, an illustration of the depth of the water being found in the fact that in a billiard room in that quarter the flood swept over the tops of the tables. Water entered the dining-room of the Riddel House, although it is fully four feet above the surface of the street. If the weather had not turned cold in the latter part of the night the damage to property would have been enormous, with considerable loss of life. Fortunately no lives were lost, although there was great damage to property and much personal suffering.

LINCOLN READS A POEM.

HONEST OLD ABE ENTERTAINS HIS CABINET WITH A LITTLE QUOTATION.

"Now, gentlemen, you all have more or less poetry in your souls; listen to this," and Abraham Lincoln, then President, rose from his chair, in his office in the White House, and read in trembling tones, which indicated his own profound appreciation of it, Dr. O. W. Holmes' "Last Leaf," of which the following are two verses:

"They say that in his prime,
Ere the pruning knife of time
Cut him down;
Not a better man was found
By the crier in his round
Through the town.

Now the mossy marbles rest
On the lips that he had pressed
In their bloom;
And the names he loved to hear
Have been carved for many a year
On the tomb."

Mr. Michael Guilfoyle, of Binghamton, N.Y., is not as old as the venerable Boston citizen of whom the poet wrote with such tender pathos, yet he is more than three score and ten. "For the past eight of those years," he writes, "I have been a perfect cripple from rheumatism, hobbling about as well I could with my cane. I took PARKER'S GINGER TONIC, and am now supple and strong as a gymnast. There is no trace of the disease left about me."

Mr. E. W. Mosher, wholesale druggist, of Binghamton, writes Messrs. Hiscox & Co., of New York—Proprietors of the tonic—certifying to Mr. Guilfoyle's declaration.

Having all the properties of ANY preparation of ginger, PARKER'S GINGER TONIC is a remedy of infinitely greater range and power. It cures all diseases arising from an impure state of the blood or imperfect digestion. Dyspepsia (and all its consequences), Malarial Fevers, Sick Headache, Kidney troubles, Bronchitis, and common Coughs and Colds, vanish at its touch. Prices, 50 cents and $1 a bottle. Larger size the cheaper.

ELDER MOSE KITE.

HIS HAIR-BREADTH ESCAPES FROM SEEN AND UNSEEN FOES.

Troy Kansas Chief, January 18, 1883.

Most of our older citizens will remember Mose Kite (who lived in Petersburg Bottom), the hero of our state's early political history, who was of stalwart build and powerful physique; who in 1858 led a colony of our people to Pike's Peak; who fought the Indians on the plains and was shot through the body; who on his return here after the rebellion was converted and baptized by Elder Henshall, of the Christian church at Petersburg Bottom, and became a revival preacher of celebrity all through this section. They will also recall the fact that, attacked with consumption and reduced to a skeleton, he was obliged to remove to the Rockies in the hope of saving his life. None thought he would succeed. Last fall, however, the editor of this paper met him at the head of the Republican river, bigger and more robust than ever. "Why, I thought you had died of consumption long, long ago, Elder?"

"Me? I never had consumption, man! though people thought that was what ailed me, and I thought so myself. But the doctors had sent me on a wild goose chase after a dozen other diseases, just as fatal, and this was the wildest one of all."

The good Elder then recounted to us, in a charming vein, his many adventures in the rough and ready life he had led, "but," he said, "remarkable as you may think my warlike life has been, I have a much more interesting story to tell you."

"You know what a rough, noisy fellow I used to be; and I could stand any hardship. Why, on a wager, I have knocked down an ox and a mule with my fist. I have fought ruffians, border outlaws and Indians; but I was

DOGGED FOR YEARS

by a more dangerous unseen enemy that was ever getting me more completely in his clutches. I was shot at by an Indian in a fight on the plains, but the wound healed readily and gave me but little trouble. After I returned to Kansas and and commenced preaching, I first began to give way. I had a dull feeling, accompanied with a pain in the right side. Dr. Butler, our family physician, said my liver was out of order, caused by the malaria of the bottoms. I had always had an appetite like an ostrich, but my digestion became seriously impaired. While on the circuit preaching, I consulted a doctor, who said I had dyspepsia. After that, distressing palpitation of the heart followed, and the physician said this was caused by my indigestion and diseased liver which would probably terminate fatally. Sometimes I had a ravenous appetite, at others none at all. I was feverish and then chilly. My food seemed to do me no good. A specialist told me I had a tape worm! Then I was troubled with unusual quantities of water and a frequent desire to urinate, which was done with difficulty and great pain. The specialist said I had a touch of the gravel, caused by the use of alkaline water of the plains. I then began to suffer severe pains in the loins and the small of the back, accompanied with sudden attacks of dizziness, during which I had to sit or lie down, to avoid falling. I was forced to abandon because I could no longer ride on horseback, or trust myself out alone. I began to be seriously alarmed, and sought the advice of the best physician within reach. He said that my frequent horseback riding had jolted and jarred me until the old Indian wound, which had injured my kidneys, had become inflamed. He treated me with medicines and electricity also, but gave me no permanent benefit. My painful symptoms all returned. I began to cough, got very thin and my legs were disagreeably numb. I began to despair. At each attempt to cure, my ailments became worse, with new symptoms. I next consulted a celebrated physician from the East, who after thumping and examining me, stated that I was in an advanced stage of consumption and threatened with diabetes and paralysis. He thought I might possibly prolong my life for a year or two, by seeking a higher and drier climate. This was my condition when the people in your part of the country last saw me.

TRAVELLING AND PREACHING,

Then I started for the Rockies but liked this country, and settled here. At first the change helped me, and about three years ago the benefit ceased. Then I failed so rapidly that I could be out of bed only part of each day. All my old symptoms returned. At this crisis, a party of Eastern gentlemen, made my house their headquarters. In the party was a Dr. Wakefield, who informed me that I had a bad case of incurable Bright's Disease, and gave me a preparation which might, he said, ease me for a few weeks or months, but that was the best that could be done. Around the bottle was a newspaper. Now a newspaper was a rarity in our house, and I sat in my chair looking it over when my eye providentially fell on an article relating a most wonderful cure of Brights disease—the very malady that was killing me—by the use of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, (of Rochester, N. Y.) Convinced that further delay would be fatal, and everything else failing, the next morning, I dispatched one of my boys to the nearest railroad station, many miles distant, to obtain a bottle of the Safe Cure. The druggist said the demand for the Cure was so great he could not keep it in stock, and he had to send to Kansas City for more. It was more than a week before it arrived, and I was daily getting weaker. But it came at last, and I at once began taking it. When I told Dr. Wakefield what I was taking, he gave me a look, half of scorn, half of pity, as much as to say, he is putting his trust in a humbug. Nevertheless I persevered and for the past year and a half I have been as stout and rugged as I ever was in my life. After escaping the attacks of Indians and a half dozen doctors, I was lying at the mercy of a still more dreadful foe that was about giving me the finishing blow, when that great remedy stepped in, slew my adversary, and placed me firmly on my feet once more. I have commenced preaching again; for I look upon the circumstances and manner of my cure as a direct interposition of Providence, and to Providence are my services due. This is my story.—I think it is [illegible] as a [illegible] better, for it is true."

ON A BUFFALO HUNT,

'POOR FELLOW!

Such is the substance, and very [illegible] the language of Elder Kite's narrative. Those who read it, and are suffering, may benefit by his experience, if they will follow his example.

—Two sharpers have been defrauding the farmers in neighboring counties in a rather original and decidedly shrewd manner. They went over the country leasing land for oil and coal; but when they came across a German farmer who was imperfectly acquainted with the English language, or some man who was unsuspecting and confiding, they presented for his signature an article of agreement, the concluding of which was a judgment note. They secured nearly $18,000 worth of these notes, which they disposed of to banks and private capitalists, realizing in this way about $14,000. They moral of all this is, that if a man wants to see his name in writing he had better scroll it with a slate pencil and then rub it out again. Things have come to such a pass that, as an exchange truly remarks, it is unsafe to sign even a temperance pledge without first consulting a good lawyer.

PLAIN TRUTHS

The blood is the foundation of life, it circulates through every part of the body, and unless it is pure and rich, good health is impossible. If disease has entered the system the only sure and quick way to drive it out is to purify and enrich the blood.

These simple facts are well known, and the highest medical authorities agree that nothing but iron will restore the blood to its natural condition; and also that all the iron preparations hitherto made blacken the teeth, cause headache, and are otherwise injurious.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS will thoroughly and quickly assimilate with the blood, purifying and strengthening it, and thus drive disease from any part of the system, and it will not blacken the teeth, cause headache or constipation, and is positively not injurious.

Saved his Child.

17 N. Eutaw St., Baltimore, Md. [illegible]

Gents:—Upon the recommendation of a friend I tried BROWN'S IRON BITTERS as a tonic and restorative for my daughter, whom I was thoroughly convinced was wasting away with Consumption. Having lost three daughters by the terrible disease, under the care of eminent physicians, I was loth to believe that anything could arrest the progress of the disease, but, to my great surprise, before my daughter had taken one bottle of BROWN'S IRON BITTERS, she began to mend and now is quite restored to former health. A fifth daughter began to show signs of Consumption, and when the physician was consulted he quickly said "Tonics were required;" and when informed that the elder sister was taking BROWN'S IRON BITTERS, responded "that is a good tonic—take it."

ADORAM PHELPS.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS effectually cures Dyspepsia, Indigestion and Weakness, and renders the greatest relief and benefit to persons suffering from such wasting diseases as Consumption, Kidney Complaints, etc.

OFFICE OF OSGOODBY'S IMPROVED SAFES
17 S. Broad Street,
ATLANTA, GA., Oct. 17th, 1881.
Dr. Rush's Medical Association:
DEAR DOCTORS—The three bottles of "Dr. Rush's Regulator" I ordered were received by express last week. I have taken nearly one bottle and am thoroughly satisfied with the result. For over two years I have been troubled with sharp pain at my heart. My physician, upon examination, pronounced it enlargement of the heart, and was unable to give me any relief. The trouble grew worse, until I had become convinced that I could not be cured. While in New York City, last week I called on one of the most prominent physicians there, who charged me $25 for an examination and then recommended your "Regulator." Knowing you to be a regular Medical Association, and not a patent medicine scheme, I ordered the three bottles. I have not been troubled since I commenced taking it, but shall continue, and take the entire three bottles so as to obtain a permanent cure. I am, gentlemen, very respectfully,
WM. G. OSGOODBY.

GENTLEMEN—I have been troubled with rheumatism for two years. I tried all the best advertised oils and liniments, and many first-class physicians without relief. The last doctor I visited recommended Dr. Rush's "Blood Root Oil." I purchased a large bottle for fifty cents, and applied it. In two hours I was relieved, and now am entirely well. Its effects are wonderful, and I believe it the only thing in the world which will cure rheumatism.

A Lecture to Young Men on the Loss of MANHOOD
A Lecture on the Nature, Treatment and Radical cure of Seminal Weakness, or Spermatorrhœa, induced by Self-Abuse, Involuntary Emissions, Impotency, Nervous Debility, and Impediments to Marriage generally; Consumption, Epilepsy and Fits; Mental and Physical Incapacity, &c.—By ROBERT J. CULVERWELL, M. D., author of the "Green Book," &c.
The world-renowned author, in this admirable Lecture, clearly proves from his own experience that the awful consequences of Self-Abuse may be effectually removed without dangerous surgical operations, bougies, instruments, rings or cordials; pointing out a mode of cure at once certain and effectual, by which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.
☞ This Lecture will prove a boon to thousands and thousands.
Sent under seal in a plain envelope, to any address, on receipt of six cents or two postage stamps. Address,
THE CULVERWELL MEDICAL CO.,
